

Well, in principle, it's quite an interesting sport?

– Yes, I absolutely love the contact with the animal, both on horseback and being on the ground 😊

Yes, spending time with it. Horses are insanely smart, they respond to sounds, to voices, to us, and they understand it all. They are all very cute and very cool. 😊

Taking care of it?

Would you recommend this sport and maybe any tips for beginners?

Well to recommend, probably, will be difficult because the person will first have to try it as a sport. It depends on the person because you can't force them, and it is not necessary, because it is a contact with the horse and, in this case, it can be very often dangerous. And tips for beginners are as follows: as often as possible to train and approach wisely, as well as not to sit on horseback in a bad mood. After all, it may not end well for anyone.
