

Our school's event creates a positive connection between charity and fun, proving that helping others lifts spirits. Comic-Con is a tradition that not only promotes fun and creativity but also helps save and improve the environment. Even one that is several thousand miles away.

Often we hear questions: "Why not help organizations in our city or at least in Russia?"

That's the question Mr. Hearn answered for us:

"Firstly, I would like to say that this is a valid question. Choosing a charity is not something to be taken lightly. We are an International school and consequently we support International causes and interests. Our Student body in the Secondary school represents over 6 different countries. Our staff represent; USA, Russia, UK, France, Canada, South Africa & Australia.

This year we also donated money to a British cancer charity which plans holidays for young Cancer patients.

In the last two years, we donated to Operation Smile (a medical charity that has global operations). We have also donated money to members of the ISK family who have encountered extraordinarily unfortunate circumstances.

Secondly, this year the student council is trying to raise awareness for a variety of issues. Whilst we have focused predominantly on medical charities and causes in the past we thought we would consider wildlife or nature charities as a possibility too.
